

Notice of Listing of New Cryptocurrencies Polygon (MATIC) and Maker (MKR)

bitFlyer, Inc. (Head Office: Minato-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director: Masaaki Seki), which operates one of the largest cryptocurrency exchanges in Japan, is pleased to announce that it will be offering and handling transactions for Polygon (MATIC) and Maker (MKR) on the company's altcoin sales platform. These will be the 16th and 17th cryptocurrencies listed on bitFlyer, respectively.

The date on which these cryptocurrencies will be listed shall be announced in due course. bitFlyer will strive to continue expanding the range of cryptocurrencies available as part of its efforts to improve convenience for its users.

■About Polygon (MATIC)

- Name of currency: Polygon (MATIC)
- Ticker symbol: MATIC
- Features: Polygon is a sidechain designed to address the scalability issues of the Ethereum blockchain, including its high transaction fees and slow processing speed, while complementing the Ethereum network. The Polygon chain has a Bridge feature that allows funds to be transferred between it and other blockchains, such as Ethereum, with relatively low fees on its own chain for transfers. In addition, Polygon is also used in practice as a utility token for various applications such as blockchain games, NFTs, dApps, etc.

■About Maker (MKR)

- Name of currency: Maker
- Ticker symbol: MKR

- Features: Maker is a governance token for the MakerDAO Project, a protocol that issues and handles the cryptocurrency DAI. By using various Ethereum-based cryptocurrencies as collateral, users can issue DAI and utilize dApps involving the use of DAI. Holders of Maker can also play a part in operational decision-making through voting.
